

Data for Nutrition

Community of Practice

In recent years, the nutrition agenda has gained focus and priority. However, there are many practical challenges around data, measurement and information systems for nutrition that need to be addressed.

The Data for Nutrition (DfN) community of practice is a place for the global nutrition community to come together to share their knowledge, experience, resources, new research and evidence, best practices and innovations around nutrition data, and to prioritize collective problem solving.

Share & receive

Discuss questions, share your experiences, and recommend resources

Network

Find other professionals working in your fields of interest or geographic region through the member directory

Host or attend a webinar

Community members host webinars about data innovations and topics of common interest

Post an event

Share an online event or advertise global or regional meetings on the community calendar

Register at www.DataforNutrition.org

Engage with DfN Platforms

DfN Web Platform

The web platform is the primary way to access the DfN community. Visit DataforNutrition.org you can login to the platform to access discussion forums, resource libraries, member directories, and group event calendars, and send direct messages to other members.

Need help navigating the platform? We have a navigation guide to help!

DfN Mobile App

Stay connected with DfN on our phone by downloading the Mobilize mobile app through the apple or android app store. Access discussion forums, resource libraries, member directories, and group event calendars, and send direct messages to other members all from your phone!

DfN Emails

Set your notification settings to create and reply to posts directly from your email.

Twitter

Stay up-to-date with the latest news from DfN by following up on Twitter at @Data4Nutrition. Follow us for information about community features and opportunities to engage, upcoming webinars, and news from our members.

Tag us in your Tweets – We retweet information members share through the community platform.

YouTube

Watch recordings of our webinars anytime on our YouTube channel. Subscribe today!

Interact with DfN Groups

Through the web platform, online app, and email, you can interact with DfN's discussion groups:

Open Forum

Highlight your work, ask questions, and share resources

Jobs & Opportunities

Advertise training, funding, job & consultancy opportunities

Webinars

Presentations and interactive discussions designed and led by members

Introductions

Introduce yourself to the community and connect with others

DfN Notice Board

Central hub for community announcements

Moderated Topics

1-3 week moderated discussions about a key nutrition data topic

